Victoria,

I've reviewed the Jan 19, 2017 snapshot and it looks like most of what we requested is available, except for the following:

1. Dynamic databases, including but not limited to data available through ECHO, IRIS assessments, GHGRP's FLIGHT tool, EJ Screen, ChemView, and the TRI. If you could provide written confirmation that all of the requested dynamic databases are still available online through EPA's current website, that would satisfy my request.
2. Pages with the root web addresses of cfpub.epa.gov, archive.epa.gov, Yosemite.epa.gov, cdxnodengn.epa.gov, and nepsis.epa.gov do not appear to have been part of the snapshot. Could you verify in writing that the data we requested that uses these addresses are still available online? If so, that would satisfy my request.
3. Item number 1 from my request (communications regarding the decision to remove the climate change webpage and then the decision not to remove the climate change webpage) and item number 13 (records received pursuant to EPA's 2016 Information Collection Request for oil and gas operators and facilities) are not for records that would be covered by the website snapshot. If you could provide me with a status update for these two requests, that would be great.

Thanks again for the extended deadline, and I hope you have a great weekend if I don't hear from you today.

Best,

Courtney Bernhardt

Ms. Bernhardt,

Thank you for speaking with me this afternoon. I understand that you need an extra day to review the EPA Snapshot Website and we agreed that you would let us know by COB Friday, February 24, 2017 if you were voluntarily withdrawing or further clarifying your FOIA request (EPA-HQ-2017-003325).

If we do not hear from you, we will consider your request as voluntarily withdrawn.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to me.

Thank you so much!
Victoria

Ms. Bernhardt,

Thank you for speaking with me this afternoon regarding your FOIA request pending with EPA. Immediately following the 2017 Presidential inauguration, the agency received numerous FOIA requests regarding historic versions of the EPA website. To respond to these requests for information, EPA has re-posted a snapshot of the EPA website as it existed on January 19, 2017.

- This action is similar to the web snapshot taken of the previous administration's WhiteHouse.gov site that is publically available on the National Archives and Records Administration's web site.
- The EPA snapshot (19January2017Snapshot@epa.gov) is now available on the current EPA web page in the footer, under "Discover," or from the "Frequently Requested Information" portion of the FOIA page.

In light of the posting of the January 19, 2017 Web Snapshot, it appears as though the substance of your FOIA request has been addressed. However, given that the Snapshot has been posted recently, we would like to give you time to review the Snapshot. Please let us know by COB Wednesday, February 22, 2017 if you will be withdrawing your request, or if there are still any unaddressed items. If there are still any unaddressed items, we will need to clarify the scope of your request, including but not limited to identifying custodians, search terms, and ranges.

Thank you for your interest in this information. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call me at my number below, or email me.

Thank you very much!
Victoria
